SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

For the most part, the hostages find themselves more less constantly on the move. The International Airport (BIA) appears to serve as a main point of focus in the course of this ongoing shuffle. However, Robert Polhill has not moved; he remains in place. On the other hand, Alan Steen and Joseph Cicippio are being led south towards the Lebanese Israeli border where the "dumping" of these two hostages was initially projected to occur.

LTC Higgins has succeeded in befriending one of his captors described as a Lebanese Druze who normally resides in Beirut and who could very well facilitate the release of Higgins. Higgins' immune system has been rendered weak from continuing physical deprivation even though he is being well treated at this time. He will require pronounced medical attention upon his release. LTC Higgins is currently located in an area known as "Aramun" located about 31 miles south of the BIA. See ENCLOSURE 1. His current location has something to do with "a red rose with beads." The name of "Charles Higgins" continues to surface in connection with the person of LTC Higgins. Viewer 079 indicated some sort of future association between "Strayer" college and LTC Higgins. (No further clarification provided-Subsequent search revealed the existence of a Strayer Jr College, a co-ed school in DC).

Terry Waite and Terry Anderson are now returning towards the Beqaa Valley. Reed and Tracy remain with the principal group of hostages previously indicated as being at the "Military Barracks."

Jesse Turner continues to be confused with Thomas Sutherland; it is Sutherland who will follow Higgins out of captivity.
